Throughout its history, our United Way has weathered many storms – both literally and figuratively. But 2020 was like nothing we have seen before, resulting in unprecedented disruption and accelerated change. Through it all, the vital role United Way of Martin County plays in our community has become more evident than ever. In the face of such challenges, we have found one of our greatest strengths is our flexibility – our ability to respond, to pivot and to help our partners do the same.

To show our donors and other stakeholders how United Way of Martin County helped our community respond to the pandemic and ensuing economic impacts, we are focusing this year’s Community Impact Report on the significant steps we have taken to address community needs during 2020. There has been nothing normal about our “new normal” and this Community Impact Report will reflect that notion.

Improving lives by mobilizing the caring power of our community is more than our mission. It is our core, the heart of our work. And in today’s unsettled times, never has this work been more important. Our response would not have been possible without the support of our donors, volunteers, staff and entire community that banded together on a scale we never thought possible. Thank you for answering the call when we needed you the most. We are #StrongerUnited.

Warm regards,

Carol G. Houwaart-Diez

@UnitedWayMartin
The COVID-19 pandemic may be a new challenge, but the human desire to help one another is not. Across our community, people reached out for help — and, at the same time, people found ways to help. For nearly 50 years, United Way of Martin County has been mobilizing the caring power of our community to help local people during their darkest hours — whether recovering from a natural disaster, a personal financial setback or an unforeseen medical emergency.

Throughout 2020, United Way’s role was critical in the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic as more people than ever before were scrambling to cover their basic needs.

Even before the pandemic hit, nearly half of Martin County households were one emergency away from financial ruin. For many families, COVID-19 became that one universal emergency.

Recognizing the crisis in the making, United Way of Martin County immediately launched the COVID-19 Relief Fund in March 2020 when the virus first started to circulate in the area.

The fund was established using emergency reserves, but shortly after, the donations started rolling in, totaling nearly $280,000.

The Martin County Board of County Commissioners named United Way of Martin County as the official organization to raise resources for our community’s COVID-19 response and recovery.

100% of the funds raised will be channeled back into our community to assist Martin County individuals and families impacted by COVID-19.

UNITED WAY OF MARTIN COUNTY COVID-19 RELIEF FUND

By the Numbers

- 200 donors contributed $279,569
- 125 families received $122,500 in relief for rent, mortgage, utility and transportation assistance
- $29,500 provided to keep pantries stocked with nutritious food and programs running
- $45,000 provided to nonprofits and childcare centers for cleaning supplies, upgrades and personal protective equipment
- 66% more homebound seniors received food delivery
Nonprofit organizations serve as the front-line responders in times of need, and COVID-19 is a prime example. The dependency on nonprofits’ services, such as food, housing, utility, health care resources, has been greater than ever before.

To help nonprofits meet the increased need using a collaborative and strategic approach, United Way of Martin County and a consortium of local funders worked together to allocate resources to organizations that would help the most people as efficiently as possible.

To accomplish this, the consortium created a centralized online grant application for local nonprofits. Each funder individually allocated its resources to the organizations and grants that fit within the funder’s guidelines and funding priorities.

This collaboration allowed funders to review all applications submitted through the universal application process, share data and information and encourage funding partnerships.

By the end of 2020, the consortium awarded $1,146,045 in grants that helped 31 nonprofits and thousands of people in Martin County.

198 households avoided evictions and foreclosures and 107 past-due utility accounts were made current thanks to the United Way of Martin County’s distribution of $664,189 in federal Coronavirus Aid, Relief and Economic Security (CARES) Act personal assistance grants.

In July 2020, the Martin County Board of County Commissioners tapped United Way’s expertise as a convener and provider of resources to distribute federal assistance to people caught in the economic storm wrought by the COVID-19 pandemic.

The United We Care fund provided rent, mortgage and utility assistance to Martin County residents with a household income at or below 120 percent of the median income level.

To qualify for assistance, applicants provided documentation verifying they had lost income or suffered financial hardships as a direct result of the pandemic. Up to $10,000 per household was available, and payments were made directly to the landlord, mortgage lender or utility company.

United Way also distributed $2,802,450 of CARES Act funds to eligible Martin County nonprofits to keep pantry shelves stocked with nutritious food and products throughout the pandemic.

In October 2020, United Way again partnered with the Martin County Board of County Commissioners to expand mental health services by distributing $469,617 in federal CARES Act funds to help mental health providers meet the increased demand for services caused by the pandemic.

“The United We Care program helped me a lot. I have four children and have been out of work for six months. If you didn’t help me, I wouldn’t know what to do. Thank you so much.”

COVID-19 RESPONSE

UNMASKING THE COMPASSION IN OUR COMMUNITY

In the early stages of the pandemic, we faced many critical shortages of supplies, including personal protective equipment. This unmet need inspired dozens of professional and novice sewing enthusiasts to take up needle and thread to help front-line workers facing dwindling supplies of face masks.

As soon as the Centers For Disease Control and Prevention recommended wearing cloth face coverings in public settings, the demand for homemade masks skyrocketed. Volunteers did their best to keep up with requests, often burning the midnight oil to complete large orders. There were several heartwarming stories of people coming together to help, such as generous fabric donations from Dramatic Décor and Calico Corners.

In all, volunteers distributed nearly 10,000 homemade masks to individuals, nonprofits and healthcare workers.

Additionally, United Way distributed donations of 9,000 cloth masks from the Corporation for National and Community Service and 20,000 disposable masks and hand sanitizer from Bank of America.

Volunteer United

Volunteer work is not only essential to helping the community respond and recover from a disaster, but it also provides a tangible economic benefit. The dollar value of every hour that volunteers spent in disaster recovery—from delivering meals to vulnerable seniors to making face masks for first responders—can be applied to the local government’s cost share for Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) reimbursement.

As the lead coordinating agency for Emergency Support Function (ESF 15) Volunteers and Donations, United Way of Martin County played a critical role in recruiting and deploying volunteers and tracking volunteer hours to help offset the local government’s financial burden of disaster response.

In all, United Way recruited 272 volunteers who provided 54,692 of volunteer service worth approximately $935,250 toward disaster response for the COVID-19 pandemic.

United Way of Martin County’s LEADERS UNITED group volunteered at a food pantry during the pandemic.

TOOLS FOR SUCCESS

Amid all of the disruption caused by the pandemic one thing remained the same — the need for school supplies, and the expense that came along with it.

Whether they started the school year virtually or in the traditional classroom setting, more than 10,500 Martin County students began the school year with necessary supplies thanks to United Way of Martin County’s Tools for Success program.

More than 260,000 supplies were lovingly assembled into supply kits to help students kick start the school year, saving local families over $83,000 in school supply costs.

The pandemic made it more difficult to collect school supplies from traditional drop-off locations. As a result, United Way focused on a virtual drive, which allowed donors to safely and efficiently purchase items that were shipped directly to our office.

The extensive volunteer effort was scaled down to comply with social distancing guidelines. Thirty-eight individuals volunteered 316 hours sorting and assembling school supply kits that were delivered directly to the schools.

JOE KORDICK YOUTH CHARACTER AWARDS

United Way of Martin County’s CHARACTER COUNTS! program typically hosts a ceremony to present Joe Kordick Youth Character Awards to students honored for their outstanding character.

In 2020, instead of honoring students during a ceremony, CHARACTER COUNTS! advisory board members surprised recipients by placing signs at their homes that read “A Joe Kordick Youth Character Award Winner Lives Here.” Seniors’ names were displayed on the electronic billboard in Stuart and they were also presented with a $1,000 cash award. Middle school recipients were presented with a plaque.

“While we were disappointed that the pandemic altered our plans, it was actually an ideal time to applaud good character because challenging times reveal our true values, priorities and character as individuals and as a society.”

-Victoria Defenthaler, Martin County School Board Member and CHARACTER COUNTS! Advisory Board Member
Another impact of social distancing is its effect on volunteer programs that engage individuals over 55. Many older adults and retirees provide critical support to countless organizations, from literacy programs to food banks and more. Pre-COVID-19, an army of older adult volunteers – through United Way of Martin County’s Retired and Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) – gave of their time to make sure community needs were met. These efforts were honored during a drive-thru style volunteer celebration attended by over 120 RSVP volunteers. This unique event celebrated the impact of volunteers age 55 and older who contributed 63,880 hours of donated time in 2019, saving local nonprofit agencies $1,624,468.

United Way Holiday Project

For more than 30 years, United Way of Martin County has helped bring Christmas cheer to thousands of children and their families facing hard times, and 2020 was no exception. The pandemic may have complicated the traditional ways of collecting and distributing toys, but it didn’t stop the program from helping struggling families in a year when they needed it the most.

As the local coordinating agency for Toys for Tots, United Way employed creative methods to safely collect toys during the pandemic, such as virtual toy drives and drive-thru drop-off events.

United Way faced another challenge in adjusting its volunteer strategy to adhere to social distancing and safety protocols. Small groups of volunteers in staggered shifts worked diligently in the days leading up to distribution to ensure the right toys got to the right children.

Families were scheduled to pick up their pre-packaged toys during a two-day drive-thru distribution event.

Typically, parents can select toys themselves, but safety protocols put into place during the pandemic limited the number of individuals permitted in the fairgrounds at one time.

While not ideal, the model for distributing toys enabled us to fulfill our mission of making sure there was a toy underneath the tree for every child.

In addition to the toys, families were provided with a turkey, pork tenderloin and two weeks’ worth of groceries thanks to Cares Act funds from the Martin County Board of County Commissioners.
